CRIMINOLOGY

Learning Outcomes

- Know: Graduates will demonstrate a deep conceptual understanding of criminological theory and the interrelated institutions and processes of the criminal justice system, as well as specialized knowledge in a sub-area of the discipline.
- Apply: Graduates will be able to apply theory and current research to identify gaps in the literature and generate new knowledge in criminology.
- Communicate: Graduates will be able to communicate with the discipline through clear, well-organized manuscripts, proposals, and formal presentations.
- Think: Graduates will be able to critically analyze unpublished and published research by other scholars in criminology and in their specialty area.
- Professional Practice. Graduates will demonstrate a commitment to active citizenship in the department and the discipline and engage with research, as well as with colleagues and students, in an ethical manner.